FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Williamson County & Cities Health District adds Pregnancy Testing to Its List of Services

The Williamson County & Cities Health District (WCCHD) will offer pregnancy tests, prenatal counseling, and referrals, beginning June 5, 2012. These new services will continue the District’s focus on protecting mothers and children in the early stages of the pregnancy and working with the mother and family to ensure a healthy delivery. In addition to the pregnancy tests, WCCHD will continue to evaluate pregnant women and their families for potential eligibility for Medicaid, the Children’s Health Insurance Perinatal Care Program, Title V, WIC and other medical and social service programs. WCCHD counselors also guide eligible women to prenatal care services through multiple community sites. Nutrition and health education classes are also offered to pregnant women enrolled in WCCHD services.

Interested parties may contact the WCCHD Georgetown Office at (512) 943-3640 for an appointment. This service will be offered on Tuesdays between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., by appointment only (and only at the Georgetown office). Pregnancy tests are $10 and for a low cost, a three month supply of prenatal vitamins will be offered.

For more information about pregnancy testing and other WCCHD services, visit your public health department website at www.wcchd.org or call (512) 943-3640.
